Author and photographer Simon de Burton has spent decades documenting the world of motorsport. His passion for the subject shines through in every page of Cars At Speed, which is packed with fascinating insights and anecdotes from the drivers, engineers, and team owners who made history.

The book is a visual feast, with over 250 stunning photographs that capture the beauty and speed of these legendary machines. From the sleek Alfa Romeos of the 1930s to the powerful Ferraris of the 1950s, each car is profiled in detail, with information on its design, performance, and racing history.

But Cars At Speed is more than just a collection of pretty pictures. De Burton also provides a fascinating social history of the Grand Prix circuit, exploring the rivalries, personalities, and behind-the-scenes stories that made this era so compelling.

Whether you're a lifelong fan of motorsport or simply appreciate beautiful photography, Cars At Speed is a must-have book. It's a stunning tribute to a bygone era, and a reminder of the enduring power of the human spirit.
